

Erikah-Lindsey E. Lunsford

Assistant Professor for Food Systems Education and Policy

---

205 Morrison Mayberry Hall
Tuskegee University, Tuskegee, AL 36088

812 390 6732
llunsford@tuskegee.edu

My participatory action research, teaching, and service focus on how community food systems strategies can improve equity, health, and democracy. I catalyze, facilitate, and lead collaborations that strive for these ends and rigorously assess these strategies. Recently and temporarily, I have deferred some research to focus on COVID-

Interdisciplinary Research Leaders Program, Alabama Black Belt Team

2018-2019

Consultant in Diversity, Equity, and Inclusion

eXtension, Extension Foundation

2019

Visiting Scholar and Awardee

International Comparative Rural Policy Studies, Rovaniemi

Professional Agriculture Workers Conference Gamma Sigma Delta, Undergraduate Student Poster Competition, Opelika, AL, Moderator, 2019

Tuskegee University Earth Week, Sustainability Exhibit in partnership with the Robert R. Taylor School of Architecture

Member of Epsilon Sigma Gamma, AL / Alpha Pi Chapter - The Extension Professionals' Organization

Member of Gamma Sigma Delta, Tuskegee University Chapter The Honor Society of Agriculture

Fall 2021 APSC 02-04 Justice in Food Systems

Undergraduate student mentorship

Brittany Davis (BS candidate). Soul Food as Healing Dissertation. Research internship 2020.

Marley Smith (BS candidate). Soul Food as Healing Dissertation. Research internship 2020.

Michelle Phillips (BS candidate). Tuskegee United Leadership and Innovation Program. Experiential learning internship 2014-2016.

